Northcote and Derby.

How these Heavy Men of the British Cabinet Look and Talk.

Sir Stafford Northcote, the well-known Chancellor of the Exchequer, is the hardest worked member of the Cabinet. To him are directed a majority of the questions having reference to the foreign policy of the Government. Either to answer questions, or in speaking in defense of the policy of the Government, he has been before the House oftener than any other man, and has much more to say during the pendency of the debate on the vote of credit.

Ordinarily, Northcote is not a good speaker, but he is positively a bad one. In this respect I refer more especially to his manner, and not his ideas. In speaking in response to an interogation, he is slow awkward, hesitating. His worst defect at such times in his employment of the drawl aw-aw so much in use by the English speakers.

Apropos of this peculiarity, and which by many English speakers is considered a graceful piece of ornamentation, I have been told that it originated with Lord Palmerston when leader of a party in the house. He had a ticklish task to perform, the situation being delicate and critical, and his hold upon the members precarious. Never being able to decide in advance what shade of policy would suit his fracticious following he was compelled to conform to the shifting temper of the house. He would speak, watching the effect of each word as it fell upon his listeners, thus constantly feeling his way, always ready to go ahead if the signs were favorable, or to tack and go upon some other course in case there were indications of dissent. In order that he might find how each word was taken before putting out another, he introduced a drawl—a series of aws—after a word, which gave him time to observe its effect before launching its successor. What was thus used originally as a matter of policy has since become an indespensible ornament in the address of many English speakers. It consists not only in from one to a half dozen aws between each word, but in stuttering or tripping over the first syllable of every third of fourth polysyllable. Thus, in the sentence, "Gentlemen, I am determined to conclude, etc.," the prevailing style would render it thus: "Gentlemen aw-aw I aw,am aw-aw d' d' d' aw, d' determined aw-aw to aw k' k'k'k' conclude aw, etc.' As said, this atrocious defacement is regarded by no small number as a most graceful accomglishment to a speech; and especially among clergymen, it is not uncommon for an entire sermon to be composed to the extent of fifty per cent. of awing and stuttering.

Northcote has this defect under ordinary circumstances. When, however, he rises to the dignity of a speech as was the case once or twice during the great debate, he drops his abominable appendage and becomes smooth fluent, and coherent. While lacking the cultivated finish of Gladstone, or the natural grace of Bright, he is still a fervid, forcible, impressive speaker. In appearance he is striking. He has a massive head, whose strength is added to by masses of light hair, and a heavy, full beard, which gives a majestic effect. His hair and beard being light, just a tint of gold, suggests the idea of his being enveloped in a mazy aureola. He is above medium size, strongly built, without being stout; and of sufficient dimensions to make a striking, if not a commanding, figure when on his feet. He is a pure Saxon in appearance. He has blue-grey eyes, of great magnetic force, and shapely features. He is, in his style, a very handsome man. As an official he is considered invaluable, not especially as leader of armies, but most competent as a subordinate. Withal, he is generally liked, and is one of the few members of the Cabinet who have escaped being made the object of special and venomous attack by the opposition. Fresh in face and complexion, always concise in his answers, even-tempered and well informed, he seems, in his difficult position, to be the right man in the right place.

EARL OF DERBY.

This official, as the head of the Foreign Office, plays a conspicuous role in British politics. He is the son of one of England's most sagacious statesmen, and who was one of the most brilliant and scholarly men of his age. He translated Homer, and, in various ways demonstrated the possession of great intellectual power and marvelous versatility.

The present Earl of Derby, in his younger days, was a violent Liberal. At one period, as Lord Stanley, he visited and traveled quite extesively in America. He was always very studious, mainly, however, in the literature of blue books, which possessed for him a charm above all others. The veteran, Disraeli, was his teacher, and spent many a day at the home of the present Earl, inducting him into the mysteries of statecraft. He is a pupil who does no discredit to so great a teacher. He knows all politics; and although in lacking the brilliant versatility of his famous father, he is certainly the peer, if not the superior of the old Earl in this particular study to which he has given his life. He is eminently a man of detail, in the broader sense of the term. He is almost always right, although in one case, having reference to the extradition difficulty of the United States, he did commit a blunder.

He is tall, rather inclined to stoutness, with a frank, open, handsome face. He dresses very plainly, and has a bearing which would lead no one into thinking that he is anything but a gentleman. During all the bitterness of the late conflicts, he has escaped all calumnious assault. He is universally recognized as a man of great political firmness and unimpeachable honesty, and hence, is universally respected. — London Corr. Chicago Times.

Established in 1854,
For the Permanent Cure of all Special and Chronic Diseases, as also all Female Complaints and Diseases of the Nervous System.

THE IMMENSE DESTRUCTION OF human life annually from secret and chronic diseases, caused this old and reliable institution to be established, first in Philadelphia, Penn., in 1850, and afterwards in San Francisco, Cal., in 1854, as a private dispensary, in order to afford the afflicted the best medical and surgical treatment, for the above and all other affections and complaints. Consultation at the Institute, or by letter, FREE.

To the Afflicted:

Dr. L. J. Czapkay would most respectfully inform the public of the Pacific coast that, at the earnest solicitation of his numerous friends, and hundreds of those unfortunately afflicted with disease, he has reopened his MEDICAL AND SURGICAL INSTITUTE and resumed the practice of his profession. The Doctor would remind all those who are in need of medical aid, that since relinquishing his very extensive and successful practice in San Francisco, he has visited the principal cities in Europe, inspecting diligently the experience of the most learned in the profession, the benefit from which he offers to all in need of his services. Rheumatic affections, chronic catarrh, diseases of the stomach and kidneys, liver complaints, etc., successfully treated. Those who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, physical and mental debility, are assured of a permanent cure. Charges moderate. WEDNESDAY.....MARCH 27, 1878.

Sacramento a Business Center.

We have often wondered at the persistence with which the business men of interior towns along the C. P. R. R. follow old habits with regard to tariff or freight charges. Discrimination and prejudice in favor of San Francisco seems to have effectually prevented growth in any other trading centers of California until the last few years. Sacramento merchants, however, with an appreciation of their natural advantages as an interior point of distribution, have commenced to claim consideration for their wares, and we are glad to know that their energy and upright dealing is commensurate with the value of the trade eventually to be secured.

Here is Sacramento 140 miles nearer to Nevada than San Francisco. Eastern freights to Sacramento are the same as those charged against merchants of the metropolis and hence there is a clear saving to interior purchasers of the freight on 140 miles of travel. Add to this the material benefits to be secured from more immediate connection with the point of supply, the time saved between the ordering and shipment of goods, and it would seem that the interior merchant would secure the same profit, and benefit his customers by purchase in Sacramento. This is indeed a sound statement, which might be enlarged upon as follows: goods ordered from any portion of Western Nevada can be shipped from Sacramento the next day. Every article needed can be had in abundance, and the purchaser saves freight upon his purchase for 140 miles. We might add to this a conceded fact, that the business men of Sacramento stand very high, by reason of their promptness, liberality, and eneagy in extending and keeping their trade.

Take the natural advantage, aid the business energy which is now at work, and it is not difficult to predict a large business growth for California's Capital. Purchasers are learning their own interests every day, and the business of Sacramento is largely on the increase. That it will continue to grow is guaranteed by the substantial inducements offered, and if the Nevada merchant consults the interests of his customer, Sacramento will gain his trade.

School Matters.

We find in conversation with a number of our best citizens that they entertain about the following views in regard to the proposed school tax, upon which our citizens will be called to vote, yes or no, on the 13th of next month We are emphatically in favor of the tax, because our town should by all means have a large and well ordered school building. We want ample school facilities. Economy, justice to our school children, and the interests of education, demand that we shall have such a building as this proposition contemplates. Our town is growing, and we desire that it shall grow. Young men and young ladies are being sent elsewhere to obtain a high school or academic education. Why not keep these at home, educate them under our own eyes, in our own town? This tax is very light, and happily will extend over a period of years. If we do not pass favorably upon it now, we shall be compelled to levy at once a tax of one per cent. Our schools are crowded, and there are children whom we could educate that are not being educated. Reno may take an advance step in the course of education if she will. She has the location. Everything now favors the tax. Shall we now take advantage of most favoring circumstances, and confer upon ourselves an enduring advantage? Or shall a mistaken and misrepresented view of the question deprive us of what we stand greatly in need of? We understand that some selfish parties, and a few others who are opposed to public schools, are actively at work opposing this tax. Fellow citizens who favor this matter, we urge you to use your influence and vote to secure for your town and your children those educational facilities which we all desire and which this tax contemplates.

A fire yesterday in Philadelphia destroyed property valued at $1,000,000. A fire in New York, $200,000.

"Sagedom."

Mr. Chas. V. Whiting, a Carsonite, who was on the divide between Virginia City and Gold Hill, last Sunday evening, was on Sabbath night relieved of a gold watch and $86 in coin by three robbers. Chas. believes the Comstock a very wicked place. The moral may be, that the innocent dwellers at the Capitol should not take all their jewelry and available coin with them when they go to the metropolis.

Mrs. Winnified Huron, of Empire was the 26 adjudged in Carson to be insane and was last evening taken to the Nevada Insane Asylum at Stockton, Cal. Her case is one of peculiary sadness. Mrs. H. leaves a family of five children under the care and provision of her husband. Her insanity takes a peculiar form, the symptoms of which are thus given by the Tribune: "In her wild moments she tears her clothes and destroys everything within her reach, and at one time attempted to kill her youngest child. In her more rational periods she is silent in speech and clutches at imaginary objects. The large family are utterly cast down by the unfortunate condition of their mother."

A son of James Miller was thrown from a horse last Thursday in Sierra Valley and fractured his ankle bone. Latest advices announce his convalescence.

Hayes' Good Sense.

President Hayes refuses to make a formal reply to Senator Howe's speech, and gives as his reasons therefor the following sensible remarks:

My official action is based on a sense of right, without thinking for a moment what the result might be as affecting myself personally. I am opposed to a public response, and prefer that my acts shall be the best interpreter of my motives and principles. I have sought to perform my duty, and with this I am content, no matter how others with prejudiced minds may view my conduct.

All would remember how bitterly Senator Howe had denounced President Lincoln toward the close of his first term, and how others had sought to prevent Lincoln from being nominated for a second term. But notwithstanding all this he was re-nominated and became more popular than ever, the people having become better acquainted with him and appreciating his conduct more.

LONDON, March 26.

The final answer from St. Petersburg to England's question whether the entire treaty of San Stefano will be submitted to the Congress, is aniously awaited.

The position of Austria is a source of much anxious curiosity. Semi-official organs have declared the treaty of San Stefano utterably unacceptable, but the fact is equally certain that Austria does not support Englan's demand concerning the form of its submission to the Congress.

The Government storehouses are so crowded with war material under recent contracts that storage has been secured in warehouses at the Victoria docks and on other wharves.

The editor of the Carson Appeal writes an excellent editorial on "Bad Book Making," in which he scores humorous writers for putting in book form their witticisms. and then he prints elsewhere such of their productions as the following:

Bob Ingersoll lives in Peoria. Hence his eloquent Peoraids.

"This suspense will kill me," as the man said when he was being hung.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Hard on Apponyi.

If the following letter, which we find in the Virginia Chronicle be true, our workingmen have listened to a scamp and have been led to organize a party by a scoundrel. A gentleman in Virginia City it seems, recognized the aforesaid Greek Hungarian as Abony of Denver Colorado, and to confirm his belief, addressed a note to Mr. Byers, editor of the Denver News, asking for a statement of Apponyi's record. The following is the reply:

DENVER, Colorado, March 22.

Mr. ——.

DEAR SIR: Charles E. Abony left Denver under very discreditable circumstances; defrauded many victims in various ways. He pretended to be an architect. He next figured in San Francisco in the same role under the name of Apponyi, or something like it. God save the Workingmen's party whose cause he champions. Yours truly. WM. N. BYERS.

TO THE POINT.—The Journal still persists that we are wrong, and that only 80 of the 310 signers to the workingmen's roll "joined the party for good." We, of course, cannot say how many of this number are thoroughly in earnest and given over completely to what is known as the Workingmen's party. We are ourselves convinced that the opposition to the Chinese is genuine. But we are further of the opinion that the Republican, Democratic and Workingmen's party will each have a strong Anti-Chinese plank in their platforms. In fact the party conventions will each present platforms embodying the same principles in substance. The only question relates to the men for whom we shall vote. The measures to be advocated by the above parties one can very nearly predict at this time. It is for us as a people to eject honest competent men to office. We have had, and now have, many good men in office, and it is unjust to ourselves and to these men to brand them as dishonest. Let us make no exception let us act more, and talk less about honest men and thieves, and official corruption. But we as a people must first be honest and then, and only then, will our officials be true men.

LYCEUM.—The debate last evening at the Reno Lycum was one of more than ordinary interest. A large number of ladies were present, and the attendance of members was much larger than at the previous meeting, nearly every seat in the lobby was occupied. The debate on Woman's rights was opened by Leeper, from Nebraska, who stoutly and very happily contended for the suffrage of the females. A gentleman on the negative side of the question threw in his popgun canister which called three speeches from Julien, Leeper and S. A. Mann. Mr. Cookes also made a few remarks. By a little parliamentary skirmishing the vote was deferred until the next session of the House. The question for discussion at the next meeting of the club is: Resolved; that the proposition of the Trustees of the Reno school District, to erect but one school building, costing $20,000, best subserves the interests of the people.

LAST RITES.—A lot of Indians yesterday disintered the remains of the recently murdered Indian, and removed his remains from its burial casket, placed his body in the bottom of the grave, nearer than it had been to the bosom of mother earth. They then placed the county's coffin upon his carcass, pronounced a few solemn primogenital rites, and covered the deceased with the insensible clod and syeneitic bowlder, peculiar to the land of the Washoes. The meaning of all this is hidden from us, but its deep significence was made to sacred by the moanings and the groanings of the sagebrush madens for our pencil to pry into. Requi escat in pace.

CHURCH SOCIAL.—The social excitement for this evening is the Boston spread at the Baptist church. It will call to our minds the period of our youth on the rock-girt shores of our New England home (the fact is we were born in Missouri, "the State of sin and misery." But Pikers can eat brown bread and beans, and "hog meat" too, for that matter.) We shall all be treated, in addition, to some excellent singing, and a few select recitations. Wm Duck is to be chairman of the meeting. If the weather clerk don't interfere, the ladies' social this evening will be largely attended and richly enjoyed.

TRIAL JURORS.—The following named gentlemen are pleased to know that they will be compelled to listen to tedious evidence, law and lawyer's speeches for many weary hours during the April term of the District court. Our sympathy, gentlemen, but here's your name flaunted to the public: John Reed, Frank Knickerbocker, Thomas Donahue, J. W. Denning, J. O. Gregory, R. H. Leigh, J. P. Richards, Peter Thomas, Garrett Fealey, Geo Harrington, James Sullivan, Jas. Manns, B. C. Epperson, John H. Morton, Geo. Deremer, Jas. W. Riley, David Young, B. M. Lovejoy, Charles Vogle, S. D. Farmon, Geo Jenkins, Geo. E. Farrington. G. H. Uber, A. Raphael, John Larcombe Jr., John Cooper, Jas. Hogle, Wm. Violet, J. N. Pine, Spiro Francovich, Henry Ward, N. W. Bailey, Jas. Barston, N. Langfield, R. N. Stiles, Clarence Lemory, Robert H. Wright, E. B. Hancock, Thos Yellop, R. H. Williams, O. C. Ross, A. F. McGregory, Louis Krahmer, Isaiah Ashcraft, Wm. M. Bunden, G. B. Stiles, David D. Provost, G. R. Hutchinson, Elias Owens, W. A. Morrison.

GRAND JURORS.—From the following twenty-four named persons the Grand Jury for the April Term of the District Court will be impaneled next Monday morning: A. H. Manning, H. H. Beck, Nels. Hammond, Alvaro Evans, M. C. Lake, L. L. Crocket, J. L. McFarlin, Henry Toombs, C. T. Bender, Jas. H. Kinkead, Geo. Andrews, E. Morrill, A. A. Longley, John Boynton, Joseph Frey, George Smith, Jr., John Wright, H. Weston H. Stephens, Wm. Donaldson, M. Raphael, J. P. Foulks, Thos. Norcross, A. J. Hatch.

THE NEW DOLLAR.—A lot of impecunious wretches are complaining that the Goddess of Liberty on the new silver dollar is not as comely and symmetric about the head as she should be. Some have it that her chin is too prominent, another that she has too much cheek, and Dan De Quille says she is not bald headed. Those who owe the Gazette will not hurt our feelings by paying such indebtedness in the new dollar. Even trades, halves or quarters will not be refused.

REGISTER.—Don't forget to register in order that you may vote on the school tax. Everyone is interested in this matter. Shall we have good school facilities, or shall we crowd our children into mean school houses and half educate them? This is the question? Old voters cannot vote, unless registered for this special vote. Remember next Thursday is the last day of grace. Go and register and vote yes, and get your friends to do the same.

AND AGAIN.—A Nevada man has the eloquence of a Cicero, the attentive memory of a Richelieu and a brain as large as Webster's. He was fined three dollars and costs.—Boston Post.

Who would have thought that the Journal's local on Crit. Thornton, of Eureka, would have found its way even to the "Hub of the Universe?"

I. E. James and C. L. Anderson, the well known civil engineers, are making a preliminary survey of a route for an extension of the Virginia & Truckee Railroad to Bodie and Aurora, from a point near the Mound House.

Jottings.

The Sunday-school concert last evening at the Methodist church, was not well attended, but, nevertheless, passed off very pleasantly.

There is some talk of a week's vacation in the public schools. A week's rest at the end of a three months' term is a good thing for teachers and scholars.

A Police Officer in Luck.

[San Francisco Bulletin, 26th.]

This morning officer Rosecamp of South San Francisco, interfered with a little smuggling operation, to the benefit of the United States and himself. At about 5:45 o'clock a man came running up to Rosecamp's house and told the officer that there was a boat on the beach at Fifth Avenue, from which some men were loading some packages into an express wagon. He thought that there was something suspicious in their movements, as did the officer, and the latter harnessed his horse and started out to look into the matter. He saw an express wagon, with two men, driving rapidly away up the Shell Road, and at once gave chase. Soon one of the men jumped off and disappeared, but the officer let the fugitive go his way, and follhwed the team which was driven at a rapid gait towards Twenty-fifth street. Mr. Rosecamp overhauled the wagon at Twenty-fourth street, and brought it to a halt. He asked the man if he owned the team, but the driver said that he did not, and did not know to whom it belonged. He said that the load consisted of rice and coal oil, but he did not know who owned it. The officer had some doubt at first whether he had the right to stop the team and arrest the driver, but at last told the man to drive to the City Hall. When the load was taken into the City Prison, an examination of the thirty-two packages revealed opium and silk handkerchiefs and scarfs. This was a surprise to all, and the officer realized that he had made an important seizure of smuggled goods. The goods were taken to the Appraiser's Store, where 1,725 half-pound boxes of opium were found, worth, at $15 per pound, $12,937. There were 780 silk handkerchiefs and scarfs, worth on an average 60 cents each. The total seizure amounts, therefore, to $13,405, of which the officer is entitled to one-half. The price of opium may be set higher than this even. In China the drug costs $11 per pound, which, with the duty of $6, freight and other expenses, would make the price here, were there no smuggling, from $20 to $22 per pound. The opium was packed in cans, some of which were made in such a form that they could be placed in a circle about the mast of a ship, fitting it exactly. When ready to be landed, two or three cans could be placed about the body of a Chinaman, and taken away without any trouble. The Appraiser says that he has seen boxes made in the form of parts of machinery, and actually placed in position in the engine room, where they were passed over by the Inspector. It is probable that this lot of goods came from the Alaska that arrived on the 22d instant. The vessel has been lying in the stream, and came up to her dock yesterday. On the Alaska's manifest there are only 30 packages of opium for the port, and 40 in transit. The man arrested on the express wagon that was numbered 1,514, gave the name of John Welsh, and says that he is a bar-tender at Twenty-fifth and Howard streets. He says that he knows nothing about the affair.

How Gerrit Smith Ruined Peterboro.—He ruined his beloved Peterboro by excessive indulgence, doing so much for the villagers that they became quite incapable of doing anything for themselves. His generosity dried up the source of public spirit and made men positively sordid. He proposed to build and endow a library there, and the owners of desirable land sites were, all at once, misers, who held the ground at prices so exorbitant that the scheme was abandoned. He opened a free reading-room, and the thirst for information being anticipated, was discouraged. He offered to erect a fountain on the common, and the jealousy of the residents, each of whom wanted it in front of his own house, caused a bitterness which the waters of Bethesda could not cure. He presented a town clock to the authorities, and they grew at once so parsimonious that he was requested to provide a man to wind it up. The common railing was dilapidated, and remained so, because he did not choose to repair it at his own expense. The brood of parasites increased on this branching oak. Tramps, swindlers, cheats multiplied. Liars sprang up like weeds. Beggars infested the county. His bounty would in many cases, if not in most, have been more wisely bestowed on the devouring sea, which it could not poison, or buried in the ground, where it would lie forever hid.—Appleton's Journal.

There used to be a man—gone West now, poor fellow—in the United States Railway mail service, ran East of Burlington, whose eyes were so crooked he could carom with them. He could hold a card out at arm's length before him, read the address with one eye and look around the end and read the message on the other side and watch a man trying to climb in at the car door behind him, all at the same time. He left the service because he always had to go to the door on the other side of the car to see the station.—Hawkeye.

---

In spite of his fondness for dancing and the regularity with which he attends all the hops and balls, they do say that when General Sherman waltzes, he goes scrambling and galloping around like a panicky mule circling about an irate teamster and a blacksnake whip.—Hawkeye.

WATCHES!! JEWELRY!!

ROMAINE GOLD,

SO EXTENSIVELY WORN IN PARIS, was first discovered in 1870, by the celebrated French chemist, Mons. D. de Dalnge, who manufactured it into jewelry, and for five years sold it to the leading jewelers of Paris for Solid Gold. In 1875, when his secret became known, ten of the manufacturing jewelers established a stock company, with a capital of $10,000,000 for the purpose of manufacturing Romaine Gold Jewelry and Watches. With this immense capital and the aid of improved machinery, they are enabled to produce all the latest patterns of jewelry at less than one-tenth the cost of solid gold, and of a quality and color which makes it impossible even for experts to detect it from the genuine.

We have secured the exclusive agency of the United States and Canada, for the sale of all goods manufactured from this metal, and in order to introduce them in the most speedy manner, have put up assorted sample lots as given below, which we will sell at one-tenth the retail value until January 1st, 1879.
